

2009 Whitney and Anna Harris Conservation Forum

Sustainable agriculture: From Field to Market

Thursday, November 12, 2009
5:30 p.m. Registration and Exhibits
6:00 p.m. Program begins

The Living World
Saint Louis Zoo
1 Government Drive

Dr. Robert Marquis, Scientific Director, Harris World Ecology Center, University of Missouri-St. Louis
"Agricultural sustainability: The complexity of the issues"

Dr. Doug Landis, Department of Entomology, Michigan State University
"Biodiversity and sustainable agriculture: Harvesting ecosystem services from agricultural landscapes."

Dr. Marty Matlock, Associate-Professor, Applied Sustainability Center, University of Arkansas
"Measures, metrics and indices of sustainability."

Breakout Sessions

Mark Lehenbauer, Farmer, Hannibal, Missouri
"Environment, Conservation and Agriculture"

Andy Ayers, Local Foods Entrepreneur, St. Louis, Missouri
"Local food = good politics and good eatin', too!"

Panel Discussion: From Field to Market

Fred Luckey, Executive Vice President, Bunge North America

Dr. Marty Matlock, Associate-Professor, Applied Sustainability Center, University of Arkansas

Rick Tolman, CEO, National Corn Growers Association

Registration required: Call: (314)-516-6203, email: hintonpa@umsl.edu

Event is free and open to the public

Co-sponsored by the Harris World Ecology Center, University of Missouri-St. Louis, Saint Louis Zoo, Missouri Botanical Garden, Agrotain International LLC, Monsanto

